

The 'Light Cell' Design Information

Medicine works fundamentally from energy interactions, as all drugs/chemicals are complex energy patterns which interact with the bodies complex energy patterns (note; a particle is actually fields/waves of energy). The human internal and external energy fields are part of the same whole energy field. When we use drugs these access the internal energy fields and are taken through the majority of the body in the blood, we also use drugs on the external energy field as creams, balms and lotions which interact with the external field. So with this in mind what this pendant does is interact with the human external energy field when it is been worn.

Brief background on the Light Cell design;

The pendant is designed to mimic a large group of human cells from an energetic view point. There are fundamentally two discs that have a natural electrical gradient (potential difference/voltage), these mimic the inner and outer electrical gradient of a human cell membrane, between the discs is a thin layer of water, this mimics the main body of a human cell. The water layer has been wiped of memory and then my partner and I programme the water with certain information to harmonise and heal the body. The water is then shielded from external electromagnetic radiation / information inherently by the materials the Light Cell is made of. When the Light Cell is worn in the persons external energy field, it merges and information will be passed from the Light Cell to the wearer.
